

Outside Counsel

SettlePou's Health Law group serves as outside counsel for physician practices by identifying and solving day to day issues that arise in physician practices. SettlePou relies on its breadth of experienced business attorneys within the firm to assist with the variety of issues that arise. The Health Law group also uses its network of professionals where appropriate to coordinate accounting, health care compliance, employee staffing, insurance, banking, financial planning and other professional services.

The Health Law group additionally ensures that the practice and related entities maintain compliance with the Secretary of State and that all corporate formalities are maintained. The Health Law group further works with physicians in developing the right business model for the practice to meet the firms short term and long term goals.